27 % e-commerce penetration rate

It took e-commerce 10 years to go from 6% to 16% of total retail sales in the US, but just 8 weeks to go from 16% to c. 27%.

x2 for online grocery

The big shift to online has been in groceries. While Amazon is one of the big winners in this space, even legacy players like Walmart (the largest grocer in the US) have seen their online grocery sales climb to 9.2% of the total, vs 5.9% last year.

Investment is accelerating

Facebook, Amazon and Shopify are accelerating their investments in the midst of a crisis while others shrink/retreat. This will have long-term consequences.

Social medias develop online shopping

Thinking and investing in a forward-looking way. Though Instagram was the first social media to develop "social shopping", Facebook just unveiled a service a few days ago that puts it in direct competition with Amazon and eBay.

How do we invest in e-commerce?

The crisis has strongly supported our long-term exposure to this segment leading us to tactically take our profits as it has become a “crowded” trade. However, e-commerce and indirect plays on e-commerce (like fintech) still account for more than 27% of Carmignac Investissement.
