5 minutes with Mark Denham

In his recent presentation at Citywire's UK Virtual Event, Mark explains what to look out for in Europe and how to identify companies with attractive long-term prospects. Watch the key takeaways in 5 minutes.

You can't follow the index in Europe – you have to be highly active

Is Europe worth looking at?

As an analyst, Fund Manager and Head of Team, Mark Denham has been covering European equities since 1993. He believes Europe provides fertile ground for investment, if one takes the right approach: 'There's no getting away from the fact that Europe is a region of modest economic growth, [...] the emphasis has got to be on secular growth – invest in companies that can grow under their own steam'.

Whilst Europe may not boast the tech giants such as the FAANGs, it is home to a multitude of innovative companies 'Contrary to what you might read in the press, innovation is alive and kicking in Europe'. Europe leads the way in what Mark regards as the next megatrend – renewable energy. 'Offshore windfarm development is growing more than twice the forecast rate for renewable energy, at more than 20% per annum²'. The FP Carmignac European Leaders fund also owns a selection of biotech stocks.

A well-oiled investment approach

The key to unlocking Europe's potential lies in Mark's well-oiled and disciplined investment process, fine-tuned over the last sixteen years: 'To achieve a high conviction portfolio, we don't assume even our best ideas have intrinsic merit – only through a rigorous and repeatable investment process can we be sure'.

Mark seeks companies with attractive long-term prospects which exhibit two characteristics – high, long-term profitability and the reinvestment of profits for future growth. The initial financial screening focuses on five key metrics and acts as a starting point for in-depth fundamental analysis.

Holdings must also have strong social responsibility credentials

A negative screening eliminates companies that appear on both Carmignac's, and the Fund's, exclusion lists. Environment, social and governance criteria are integrated at both the analysis and decision-making stages. A positive screening assesses companies' contribution to society and the planet as per the specific UN SDGs³.

The fund is focused with 30 to 40 stocks and typically has an active share of 90%⁴.
